Federal Opportunities

Environmental Education Grants Program.

Environmental Protection Agency solicits proposals for projects that design, demonstrate, or disseminate environmental education practices, methods, or techniques. Eligible applicants include education institutions, environmental and educational public agencies, and nonprofit organizations. The deadline is November 15, 2001. Awards will range from $5,000 to $100,000, totaling $3 million nation-wide. For further information contact Diane Berger or Sheri Jojokian at (202) 260-8619. Also see www.epa.gov/enviroed.

New Public Works Design Grants. National Endowment for the Arts announces funds to invest in projects that promote and use design to make communities more livable. Projects may include, but are not limited to, schools, museums, arts spaces, municipal buildings, waterfronts, and master planning. Projects should be of a scope and scale that are of national significance and that offer possible approaches for other communities. Eligible applicants include nonprofit organizations, and state and local governments. Letters of interest are due on January 11, 2001. Up to ten awards of $75,000 will be made for school-focused design projects; an additional ten awards of $50,000 will be made for all other design categories. All grants require a match of at least 1 to 1. For more information, contact (202) 682-5452. Also see <http://www.nea.gov/guide/NPW02.html>.

Sexually Transmitted Disease Faculty Expansion Program. Centers for Disease Control announces funds to provide resources to medical schools to support faculty positions specializing in training related to STD prevention and control. Applications may be submitted by public or private medical schools or health science centers. The deadline is October 23, 2001. Approximately four awards will be made totaling $340,000. For more information, contact Dr. Marianne Scharbo-DeHaan at (404) 639-8360 or zpp2@cdc.gov. Also see <http://www.cdc.gov/od/pgo/funding/grantmain.htm>.

District Opportunities

Capital Improvement Projects at DC Nonprofit Health Clinics. The DC Department of Health solicits letters of interest from DC-based nonprofit health clinics for major renovations of facilities in order to promote access, ease of patient flow and increased capacity to meet community needs. Eligible organizations must be free-standing healthcare organizations that provide free medical care, counseling and social services to an established patient base. Approximately $4 million is available total. Letters of interest are due on September 7, 2001. For information, please contact Theodore Gordon at (202) 442-5999.
